

“[Decision Makers] lack the crucial ability to accurately evaluate how much or how little risk is associated with their decisions, particularly decisions to sidestep or abbreviate any given procedure or process.”

“[Decision Makers] lack the crucial ability to accurately evaluate how much or how little risk is associated with their decisions, particularly decisions to sidestep or abbreviate any given procedure or process.”

Analyst

Supervisor

Decision Maker

C/S/E/L : 2007

innovations at the intersection of people, technology, and work.

Understanding Rigor in Information Analysis

<http://csei.eng.ohio-state.edu/zelik/rigor>

Eight International Conference on Naturalistic Decision Making

Daniel J. Zelik, Emily S. Patterson, David D. Woods

The Ohio State University

Monday, June 4, 2007

The Rigor Metric

